As English is one of the world’s most widely spoken languages, there is a high demand for English teachers.

A graduate qualification in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) will develop and extend your understanding of the theories and practices underpinning this field. These internationally recognised courses will also allow you to work in schools, language centres and universities around the world.
Outcomes

In these courses you will:

• develop specialised skills to suit varied teaching environments, including mainstream schools and language centres for adult and child migrants
• understand critical issues in TESOL research, methodology and assessment
• examine grammar and second language acquisition
• explore English teaching in an international context
• study language planning in education
• expand your knowledge of Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL).

The course is offered in two streams. Stream A is for Victorian Institute of Teaching (VIT) registered teachers seeking further recognition as a TESOL specialist. Qualified teachers who complete this course can work in a wide range of settings, including schools, adult migrant English programs and English language intensive courses for international students.

Stream B is for students who do not require VIT recognition for TESOL, such as those intending to teach English overseas, or qualified TESOL teachers who want to extend their professional knowledge and skills.

Academic staff

These courses are delivered by leading academics with a wealth of research and practical experience, including Professor Joseph Lo Bianco, Dr Russell Cross and Dr Julie Choi.

Delivery mode

Most subjects are delivered on-campus and supported by online resources.

Stream A students must ensure they are available for 22 days of supervised placement at a school or similar setting during school hours.
