The Melbourne Graduate School of Education is excited to announce an online study option for our internationally-recognised Master of Applied Positive Psychology in 2021. The course explores wellbeing science and positive psychology. You will develop a scientific understanding of how humans flourish and how communities and institutions can be strengthened.

The Master of Applied Positive Psychology program will be delivered online and provides the same structure and outcomes as the face-to-face course. It will equip you to apply positive psychology principles in your professional and personal life.

The course promotes an evidence-based, multidisciplinary approach to working in positive psychology, and will challenge your ideas about professional integrity and civic engagement.

Internationally renowned team
This course is built on the work of an internationally renowned team at the Centre for Positive Psychology.

Who is it for?
The course is for students looking for a scientific approach to studying wellbeing and anyone in a professional setting wanting to increase productivity. Graduates with either professional experience or post-graduate study are welcome to apply. The program is ideal for teachers, HR professionals, entrepreneurs, consultants, health or law professionals.

Course outcome
- Students will learn how to create and evaluate positive and meaningful change and promote optimal leadership within organisations in a range of professional contexts.
- Through your enhanced ability to improve positive leadership in workplaces, you could be ideally set for promotion into a role that leverages this skill.

#1 in Australia for Education
Evidence-based research & teaching
Internationally-renowned team

* QS World University Rankings by Subject 2020.
The following learning areas are available:

» English
» Humanities
» History
» Languages
» Mathematics
» Music A and B
» Science – general
» Science Senior Secondary (Chemistry, Biology, Environmental Science, Physics)
» TESOL
» Visual arts and design

100% online study

The four subjects are generally delivered in three two-day online intensives on Fridays and Saturdays. Opportunities to network online with your peers.

Entry requirements

- An undergraduate degree and at least five years of documented relevant professional experience, or
- An undergraduate degree and at least 100 points of relevant postgraduate study, or
- An undergraduate degree, at least 50 points of relevant postgraduate study, and at least two years of documented relevant professional experience.
- Students who enrol in the online mode of this course do not require a student visa.

Teaching mode

- 100% online study
- The four subjects are generally delivered in three two-day online intensives on Fridays and Saturdays
- Opportunities to network online with your peers

"I love every bit of my course and the lecturers have been nothing short of fantastic. We get a variety of guest speakers who share their experiences and interests with us. I wanted to learn more about positive psychology and understand how I could practically apply it to education, and more specifically to schools in Malaysia. I dream of raising generations of mentally healthy students through education in Malaysia."

Learn more about Sarah’s story here.

For more information and how to apply, please visit the link below or scan this QR code with your phone’s camera (iPhone and most smartphones):

study.unimelb.edu.au/find/courses/graduate/master-of-applied-positive-psychology